CHAMPIONS WALLOP OUT- LAWS AGAIN

Game of Saturday Results in Victory for Home Team by Score of 8 to 5.

The Ada Champions again made the Allen Outlaws bite the dust, though not to such a tune as they did Friday. Feeling humiliated over the result of the game Friday, the Allen bunch came back with a determination to win, but, when the Ada boys piled up four runs in the first inning, the Outlaws seemed to lose heart, but played none the less earnestly. Kuntz, the Allen pitcher, struck out six men, but let the opponents get nine hits off his delivery, two being for three bases and one for two.

The victory for Ada is due mainly to the playing of four men, three of whom are old heads. These four were John and Clyde Kaiser, Hale and Pat Jones. The game was a plain contest between hard work and an inside knowledge of the game, and the inside knowledge was with Ada and won. Reed and McCain, who did such fine work in the game Friday, seemed to be unable to connect with the ball in Saturday's game. Roddie also did not do the good work he usually does.

Pat Jones is becoming a favorite with all Ada fans. He struck out eight men and allowed only three hits. Had he been given even fair support in the field he would have had a shut out game. Asbury was out of his place on first base; and, while he played a good base, he did not show up as he usually does.

Ada made four runs in the first inning. J. Kaiser singled and was forced out at second on Roddie's bunt. Roddie scored on Asbury's three bagger. Asbury scored on Ellis's single. C. Kaiser was safe on Russell's error. Ellis scored when Hale hit to first base, and Kaiser scored on McCain's single.

From a wild throw by McCain, a stolen base, and an infield hit, Allen scored one run in the third. One more was made in the fourth on a single, a steal, and a sacrifice fly.

No more runs were made till the eighth round. Caudel for Ada was safe on Russell's wild throw, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored on C. Kaiser's three bagger. Kaiser scored on a wild throw to first. Jones singled, and Reed went to third. Roddie ran for Jones, stole second, and he and Reed scored on J. Kaiser's two bagger.

Allen added three in the ninth. Ballenger was safe on Reed's error. Norman was safe on Caudel's error. Ballenger scored on Clary's two bagger. Norman scored on Milner's sacrifice fly. Clary scored on a wild pitch.

Indiana Republicans.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 5.—A dozen names are under discussion for the head of the ticket to be nominated by the Indiana republicans in state convention here tomorrow. As the republican candidates must meet the opposition of the progressives as well as the democrats at the November election the party leaders are endeavoring to bring about the nomination of the strongest men they can find.

Winfield T. Durbin of Anderson, who was governor from 1901 to 1905, Mayor Lew Shank of Indianapolis, who came into national prominence through his crusade to reduce the high cost of living; Addison C. Harris of Indianapolis, former United States minister to Austria-Hungary; Col. George R. Lockwood, editor of the Marion Chronicle; Judge David W. Henry of Terre Haute, President W. W. Parsons of the Indiana Normal school, Charles A. Carlisle, a prominent business man of South Bend; James W. Emison, president of Cincinnatus University, Walter Olds of Ft. Wayne and L. C. Embree of Princeton are among those who are under consideration for the nomination for governor.

For lieutenant-governor Sidney K. Ganiard, of Larange, is regarded as the leading candidate, although there are several others in the field. For the other places on the state ticket there is a general disposition to give the nominations to the men who were the nominees two years ago.

LABOR ENDORSES NIBLACK.

Practice Far Better Than Theory;
Friend of Organized Labor.

Whereas, Leslie G. Niblack an honorary member of Typographical Union No. 587, who for many years has been an employer of union labor, always in sympathy with and an advocate of our principles, is now a candidate for the nomination of congressman-at-large and

Whereas, it is a fixed rule of the Typographical and affiliated unions to give its united support to those in sympathy with the principles of organized labor, therefore,

Be it resolved, that Guthrie Typographical Union No. 287, at a special meeting, held this July 9th, hereby heartily and enthusiastically endorses the candidacy of Mr. Niblack and calls upon the affiliated trades of the state to not only support but work for the election of Mr. Niblack. It is one thing to profess sympathy with organized labor, but "practice is far better than theory" or empty profession. In the past organized labor has supported men for election, who, professing friendship for labor proved recreant to the trust imposed in them. A man is known by his work. For a long period of years Niblack has been a firm and unqualified friend of organized labor, employing none but regularly constituted union men; a record that is not equalled by any other newspaper proprietor in the state and one which vouchsafes his loyalty to organized labor on the floor of congress if he is elected. We heartily commend his candidacy to organized labor of the state of Oklahoma.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mr. Niblack and also sent to the press of the state. Passed unanimously this 9th day of July, 1912.

CONGRESS MAY ADJOURN SOON

Washington, Aug. 4.—Congress will begin tomorrow what is expected to be the last fortnight of the present session. Adjournment by Aug. 15 or 17 is confidently expected. The postponement of the Archbald impeachment trial until Dec. 3 has cleared the decks of the senate so action on the remaining legislative matters can be pushed to a speedy finish. Uncertainty exists as to the failure of some of the appropriation bills still at issue between the senate and the house. The determination to abolish the Commerce Court and to place a seven year tenure of office in the civil service law has aroused antagonism, which may be reflected from the White House in a veto of the bill appropriating money for the salaries of federal employes.

This contingency has been anticipated by the leaders of both houses and an effort is to be made Monday to complete the legislative; executive and judicial appropriation bill so it may be sent at once to the president. In case of an executive veto, it is believed it can again be considered, passed and resubmitted to him in amended form without seriously delaying plans for adjournment.

Action on tariff bills and a reopening of the two battleships fight in the house will be features of this week's session. The senate will act on the compromise wool tariff bill tomorrow and will probably agree to it as the house has done. A meeting of the conference committee on the excise tax bill Monday or Tuesday is expected to result in an agreement that will send that measure also to President Taft during the week.

It has been asserted by the president's friends in both houses that he will veto all of the tariff bills that reach him. Such action would be accepted as final by congress and no attempt would be made at this session to repass the measures.

The democrats of the house will take up the battleship question in caucus again Tuesday. The leaders in the fight for at least one new man-of-war in this year's naval building program succeeded in forcing the third caucus on the subject and it is believed they will control the situation. If the house agrees to one ship, the senate is expected to accept the compromise, although it wants two.

Many of the most important appropriation bills remain to be completed and the senate has not as yet completed half of the expected debate on the Panama Canal administration bill. Both houses will begin daily sessions at 10 o'clock this week, however, and probably will sit evenings from 8 to 12, making twelve hours daily. Under such circumstances, business can be entirely disposed of, it is believed, within the time predicted by the advocates of early adjournment.

State Rich in Glass Sand.

Norman, Ok., Aug. 5.—The Oklahoma Geological Survey has just completed an exhaustive study of the glass sands of the state and finds that Oklahoma is rich in deposits of this material. Frank Buttram, chemist of the Survey has been in charge of the work which has been pursued continuously for several months. His report has just been sent to press.

D. W. Ohern, Director of the Survey, said today that Mr. Buttram had studied in the field every deposit of glass sand in the state and had made accurate analyses in the laboratory. The most valuable deposits found are at Crusher and Roff in the Arbuckle mountain region and at Ardmore, Durwood, Madill, Durant, Atoka and Tahlequah. The quantity of sand in these localities is practically inexhaustible. The analyses show that the quality is equal to and in most cases better than that of the famous Missouri sands.

We are now securing from Missouri the sand for our six glass plants. The Survey says we can now supply these factories with a superior grade of Oklahoma sand and save a vast amount in freight besides keeping the money within the state. The glass factories are in the state because of cheap fuel. The Survey says that the glass industry will be of much greater value to the state if the home raw material is used and that every inducement will be offered to have the plants change their source of supply.

Advantage Taken on Last Day. (Political Adv.)

It is evident that the crowd against whom I made the attack has been lurking in the underbrush to try to make an ambush attack I take this method of informing the voters of Pontotoc County that I can prove to them that there has been almost every subterfuge possible used to get them to line up with one or the other of my opponents by some of the parties opposing me for the position of STATE COMMITTEEMAN.

There are no great number of people implicated only a few of the would-be politicians that seek to handle every election that is held in the county. I cannot know what their reply will be but I ask that you consider the fact that they are making a last desperate effort to carry your vote to certain defeat.

"POLY TICKS" has ever been their long suit and believe me they are dying a hard death at the hands of the honest voters of Pontotoc county, as the result will show when the votes are counted.

My greatest opposition will center here at home where I have hardly mentioned the fact of my candidacy to my nearest neighbors, and if I cannot get the vote of my friends without begging for them, when they understand the situation I deem it well to let the people of Ada know that I have made no great effort at home where the people know me, believing them ready to vote as their judgment dictates, without cajoling them. It is simply a matter of knowing what each man stands for before the people and I am willing to rest my case at the polls on tomorrow and if they desire to try muck-raking on the last day I can reply to them later. I believe in honest elections. C. T. ANGEL.

Knights of Yuthias Meet.

Dencer, Colo., Aug. 5.—Many prominent members of the Knights of Pythias, from every state of the Union and nearly all of the Canadian provinces, are arriving in Denver for the meeting here this week of the twenty-seventh biennial session of the Supreme lodge. Contrary to the custom in the past the encampment of the Uniform Rank is not to be held this year in conjunction with the supreme lodge convention. There will be a meeting, however, of the allied organization, the Pythian Sisters.

Friends—I am coming soon for your orders for winter hosiery and underwear. I have the best—same as I had in the spring. Hold your orders for me and I will thank you. Your friend,

The Meeting at Center.

We shall begin a meeting at Center, ten miles west of Ada on Friday night before the third Sunday. We wish to make this meeting more than just a meeting for the community. We wish to help the communities and churches in the country around Center. We therefore invite all the people in the western part of the county and especially members of the churches and any body who will come to take part in this meeting. We would be glad to have the teachers with us who are not engaged in meetings at that time.

Those who live too far to attend from home could camp. The facilities for camping will be ample. We have an ideal place for a meeting, a large tabernacle well seated and lighted. But the best equipment is the good people of our community who stand ready to give every one a hearty welcome and a helping hand who will co meto our meeting.

The pastor will be assisted in the meeting by Rev. H. E. Neighbour of Roff.

We earnestly solicit you to come and help us and we shall endeavor to help you. Fraternally yours,

W. A. HALL,

The angels kept their place, waiting for the sign, and the summons at the gate of Heaven.

Everything began to take on a sombre hue. The child was very sick. The household took no note of time, and the daily routine was forgotten, and the face of the little boy was watched with tender solicitude. The doctor was called, but what can he do when the gates are open, and Messengers of life and death are bidden to go, saying: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not."

The day closed, and night quieted the troubled earth. The cool shadow was grateful after the heated day, and Jupiter, the mighty world, lead the hosts of Heaven with great brilliancy in the South and lighted the way that angels tread.

As the moments passed the baby grew worse, and the household saw nothing, heard nothing but the face of the child and the flickering pulse. It was 9 o'clock when the Messengers entered with noiseless feet. They touched the eyes and the pulse of the little sufferer, and the calm of Heaven fell upon him.

How strange is life, and how mysterious is the flight. But somehow, by life and by death we are to be made infinite gainers.

The Menace force, the Advertiser and Daily News people are in deep sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. Brown, being made aware of their profound joy in the possession of a son. Lifted to the summit of hope and expectancy they seem to be thrust down suddenly into the valley where there is no light, except the way that the baby went, and that is only seen by looking up.

May it not be that in other days to come, when beautiful thoughts visit the soul and holy ambitions thrill the spirit we may know that Wendell Phillips has left the gardens of Paradise in his play, and touched his father and mother to comfort and dry their tears.

Who can doubt the Spirit's power to communicate on Heaven's thread of love, fastened to a baby in Heaven.—Aurora Daily News.

Why Many Predict That Franklin Will Lead the Ticket for Congressman-at-Large.

WILLIAM M. FRANKLIN.

Nothing can truthfully be said against his character or his record as a public servant. He is one candidate who invites an investigation into his past life and record.

He was chairman of the Legal Advisory committee, the highest committee in the senate, and during five sessions of the legislature, since statehood, he has missed answering to the roll call only two days.

He places human welfare above all other problems, contending that personal welfare is a legitimate object of government.

He has also stood for economy in the expenditure of our public moneys, for the abolishment of useless offices, and against graft in every form, and he has the fearlessness to assume responsibility.

He has been referred to in the Press as "One of the most highly praised men in Oklahoma politics," "A doer of good things," "Absolutely fearless and incorruptible," "A man who has the good of the people in view," "A able speaker and an effective campaigner," "A sure winner," "Father of more legislation that had the good of the people in view than any other," and that "He is not a political trickster, but real honesty is his prevailing characteristic."

His speeches have been referred to in the Press as the "Quintessence of Political Wisdom," "One of the finest talks it has been our lot to hear," "One of the best political treats ever experienced in our town," "One of the most masterful addresses that the voters have had the pleasure of hearing," and he is referred to as "One of the most able and capable men on the ticket."

In the report of the Oklahoma State Federation of Union Labor it is declared that "Franklin came through the session with the grandest record for legislation to his name of any man in either house."

In voting for him you will take no chances and you will help a self-made man who has made good.

TOO STRENUOUS A JOB

MOSQUITO EXTERMINATOR HAS HAD ENOUGH.

Recently Went Through Experience That It Must Be Admitted Was Calculated to Discourage Almost Any One.

Charles F. Staedler, marshal of Verona, N. J., is also chief mosquito exterminator of that city. It is his duty to hunt out the breeding places of the winged rapiers that made New Jersey famous and deluge their larvae with kerosene oil. The life of the chief mosquito exterminator has been a tranquil one. But recently the foe of Jersey's curse met with an experience that confines him to his bed under the care of a physician.

The chief exterminator and his able assistant, Thomas Brennan, set out to visit some marshy land at the head of Verona lake. As the chief exterminator stood upon a bog pouring oil upon the hatchery of a flock of mosquitoes his foot slipped and into the mire went the marshal.

Before Brennan could grasp him the chief exterminator had sunk to his armpits. Brennan labored hard to pull his colleague from the bog, and, with a frantic yank at his chief's coat collar, he, too, slipped and joined his companion. The two struggled in the bog as did Bunyan, but to no avail.

Then, almost engulfed, they raised their voices and roared for aid. Little Hughie Ervine heard the wild calls from the bog and saw two heads protruding above the mire. Hughie tore several boards from a nearby fence and built a walk to the spot where the mosquito terrors lustily struggled for freedom. But Hughie could do nothing more, and the moments were precious, for each convulsive effort only settled the mosquito catchers deeper in their miry prison.

Hughie was dispatched for instant aid. He qualified for the Olympic team in his sprint up the road to David Slayback's place. David set forth in his motor car with a long rope.

Slayback, with Hughie's aid, dragged Brennan from the bog. For almost two hours they labored, and Staedler was almost ready to close his eyes and murmur, "Farewell, proud world," when Slayback was struck with a brilliant idea. He fastened one end of the rope under the chief exterminator's arms. The other end was tossed over the branch of a nearby oak and then tied to the rear of the motor car.

Slayback took his seat in the car and grasped the starting lever. Brennan raised his hand and Slayback put on full power ahead. It was a hard pull. The chief exterminator almost was pulled apart, but up into the air he finally shot and dangled twixt box and blue sky, dripping ooze and words of anguish.

As far as the chief exterminator is concerned, all the mosquitoes in Jersey can go to blazes. He said so himself, only his verbiage was more strenuous.

Not Ashamed of Cowardice.

The idea that nothing is so disgraceful as cowardice is one that is not held by all races. Among the Bedouins a sheik may be the leader of his tribe only in peace. When there is war, the chances are that he will relinquish his leadership to the fighting sheik.

"I have not the gift of courage," once said an Arab chief to an Englishman, apologizing for not putting himself at the head of a band that he had sent to attack another tribe.

The Englishman learned that these nomads esteem personal bravery as a gift, for the want of which a man is no more to be censured than he is to be blamed for not being handsome.

A Bengali says, without the least sense of shame, "I am timid." Yet he will meet death, even when it approaches in the form of the hangman, with the composure of a martyr.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Would Not Consider Dishes.

J. C. Stubbs, the Southern Pacific official, hasn't a great deal of patience with amateurs and those uninformed in the railroad game, and he is said to have told this story to illustrate the "wisdom" of an incipient railroad magnate.

When the stock holders of the Valley railroad were meeting in 1893 to plan the construction of the new line matters of detail were taken up among them, for even the smallest stock holder wanted a finger in the construction pie.

At one meeting a director who had to do with the engineering problems of construction asked, "How heavy shall the fish plates be?"

A stock holder growled, "What are we bothering with the dining car features for now? Let's go ahead and build the road first."

Not a Moral Objection.

A dance hall manager who could never by any stretch of the imagination be accused of harboring aesthetic convictions came out unequivocally against the season's dances.

"I am pleased to hear you take that stand," said a reformer. "Leaving morality out of the question, they are certainly ugly."

"Oh, I wasn't thinking about that," said the manager. "I'm dead set against them because it takes more room to dance them in. My hall, that will hold 250 couples for ordinary dancing, now accommodates only 200 couples, and I lose all that money."

C. C. V. Delegates for Ada Reunion.

Twelve delegates to represent David Hammond post No. 177, United Confederate Veterans, at the state encampment of the order which will be held at Ada during the first week in September, were elected at the regular meeting of the post held Sunday afternoon in the superior court rooms. Those chosen were: M. L. Dix, J. P. Allen, J. G. Street, T. P. Shuford, Dr. Satterfield, J. K. LaRue, John Burns, W. L. Bottom, W. C. Parchman, Geo. Standfield, James Leech and W. P. Trippett.

In addition to the above delegates, a number of other members of the local camp will probably attend the encampment as visitors. It is to be one of the biggest affairs held by the veterans in this state for many years and big crowds are expected to attend. Special rates on the railways are being arranged for by the encampment committee.

The local post also appointed a committee to draft resolutions on the death of Captain Niles, a member of the post, who died recently.—Oklahoman.

REUNION COMMITTEE TO MEET WEDNESDAY MORNING

The committee having in charge the work of providing ways and means for the Confederate reunion will meet Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at the office of the cement company, over the Ada National bank. All others interested in the work are urged to meet with the committee.

V HEAVY RAIN FALLS AT ADA

The drouth was broken Sunday morning by a rain that kept up a steady gait from 8:30 until noon. Although it came rather late, it will still be of material benefit to corn, causing it to fill out better than it would otherwise have done. Of course cotton will be greatly benefited and unless some pest appears, a good crop will undoubtedly be made.

As for the corn, some very good crops are reported, in spite of the dry weather. A. L. Kennedy, the demonstration agent, who has been over much of the county, is of the opinion that the corn crop of the county will average better than twenty bushels per acre.

A good rain is reported over most of the county, but across the Canadian it is reported very light.

SILLO DEMONSTRATION AT LAWRENCE QUARRY

The cement company is giving a celebration today at the Lawrence quarry by way of demonstrating the use of the Sillo. Can't Remit Tax Penalty.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 4.—That neither county treasurers nor county commissioners have authority to remit the legal penalty on back taxes is the opinion of Attorney General West, who states that the treasurer is liable for any such amounts, and that any treasurer attempting to remit will be sued on his bond.

The attorney general has also advised county treasurers not to accept the amounts tendered by the Santa Fe Railroad in payment of 1908 taxes, except as partial payment unless accompanied by the 18 per cent penalty. He states that the decision of the United States circuit court in the case brought by the Santa Fe has been affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals, but that the case will be taken to the United States supreme court.

Johnson brothers are preparing to establish and operate a cannery at their orchard near the brick plant. A part of their machinery is already on the ground and the rest is on the road, together with 50,000 cans.

The outfit is a steam plant and will have a capacity of 5,000 to 10,000 cans per day. It is the plan of the owners to can a large quantity of fruit from their orchard and also can for others as orders may come in. A Statement from Wm. H. Braley.

(Political Adv.)

To the Democratic Voters of Pontotoc County:

When I entered the race for State Committeeman in this county I did not intend to make an extensive campaign nor break into print for two reasons:

First: I felt that my activity in the democratic party in this locality made it possible that most of the democrats that had been in this county any length of time knew me personally and knew whether I was qualified to fill the office or not.

Second: That there is no salary or remuneration attached to this office the voters would look on it as preposterous for a candidate to spend any great amount of time or money in campaigning for an office of this kind.

One of my opponents, Mr. Angel has seen fit to break into print on numerous occasions and from the tone of his article in the Evening News of August 3rd, would try to impress the voters that he was the only one qualified to act as "Guardian Angel" of the democrats in this county. As for me I do not take the position of the "Holler than Thou," but simply desire to remain one of the ordinary rank and file of the party and serve in such way and manner as it seemeth best to the largest number of democratic voters.

I wish to reply to a part of his article in this manner. Mr. Angel starts out by charging that there is a deal on foot to single shot in this race as against him. I will say this charge is too preposterous to answer. In order that he may not fool somebody on this proposition I will explain. It would be impossible to single shot on an office where there was only one to be elected, which any intelligent man can see without figuring any further.

As to the so-called "gang" he refers to I don't have the slightest idea who or what he refers to, for in my judgment any man with political sense can see that in a hot campaign such as we are having in this county with as many candidates it would be impossible to form any kind of combination or "ring" as he calls it. It does not take a great amount of common sense to see this is true.

Mr. Angel winds up by saying he has no fear of defeat as he expects to carry three-fourths of the boxes in this county by a large majority. If he is honest and conscientious in this statement why does he make this howl. There are four of us in this race and if he carries three-fourths of the boxes by a large majority there will only be a small portion of the other one-fourth left to be divided between the other three candidates in this race. If this is the actual situation why is he frightened?

It may not have occurred to the voters that there are two kinds of Angels referred to in the Bible and

CHAPTER I.

In Which Keziah Hears Two Proposals and the Beginning of a Third.

Trumet in a fog; a fog blown in during the night by the wind from the wide Atlantic. So wet and heavy that one might taste the salt in it. So thick that houses along the main road were but dim shapes behind its gray drapery, and only the gates and fences of the front yards were plainly in evidence to the passers-by. The beach plum and bayberry bushes on the dunes were spangled with beady drops. The pole on Cannon Hill, where the beacon was hoisted when the packet from Boston dropped anchor in the bay, was shiny and slippery. The new weathervane, a gilded whale, presented to the "Regular" church by Captain Ebediah Mayo, retired whaler, swam in a sea of cloud. The lichen-eaten eaves of the little "Come-Outer" chapel dripped at sedate intervals. The brick walk leading to the door of Captain Elkanah Daniels's fine residence held undignified puddles in its hollows. And, through the damp stillness, the muttered growl of the surf, three miles away at the foot of the sandy folks in it was the Old Harry himself, and he was pretty good-lookin'."

Grace laughed, even though she had been somewhat shocked.

"Why, Aunt Keziah!" she exclaimed—those who knew Keziah Coffin best usually called her aunt, though real nephews and nieces she had none—"why, Aunt Keziah! What do you mean by comparing the person you just mentioned with a minister!" "Oh, I wasn't comparin' 'em; I'll leave that for you Come-Outers to do. Drat this carpet! Seems as if I never saw such long tacks; I do believe whoever put 'em down drove 'em clean through the center of the earth and let the Chinymen clinch 'em on t'other side. I haul up a chunk of the cellar floor with every one. Ah, hum!" with a sigh, "I call late they ain't any more anxious to leave home than I am. But, far's the minister's concerned, didn't I hear of your Uncle Eben sayin' in prayer meetin' only a fortnit or so ago that all hands who wa'n't Come-Outers were own children to Satan? Mr. Ellery must take after his father some. Surprisin', ain't it, what a family the old critter's got."

The girl laughed again. For one brought up, since her seventh year, in the strictest of Come-Outer families, she laughed a good deal. Many Come-Outers considered it wicked to laugh. Yet Grace did it, and hers was a laugh pleasant to hear and distinctly pleasant to see.

"Aunt Keziah," she said, "why do you go away? What makes you? Is it absolutely necessary?" "Why do I go? Why, for the same reason that the feller that was hoisted overboard left the ship—'cause I can't stay."

"I don't care!" The girl's dark eyes flashed indignantly. "I think it's too bad of Cap'n Elkanah to turn you out when—"

"Don't talk that way. He ain't turnin' me out. He ain't lettin' houses for his health and he'll need the money to buy his daughter's summer rig. She ain't had a new dress for a month, pretty near, and here's a young and good-lookin' parson heavin' in sight. Maybe Cap'n Elkanah would think a minister was high-toned enough even for Annabel to marry."

"He's only twenty-three, they say," remarked Grace, a trifle maliciously. "Perhaps she'll adopt him."

Annabel was the only child of Captain Elkanah Daniels, who owned the finest house in town. She was the belle of Trumet, and had been for a good many years.

Grace smiled, but quickly grew grave.

"Now, Auntie," she said, "please listen. I'm in earnest. It seems to me that you might do quite well at dressmaking here in town, if you had a little—well, ready money to help you at the start. I've got a few hundred dollars in the bank, presents from uncle, and my father's insurance money. I should love to lend it to you, and I know uncle would—"

Mrs. Coffin interrupted her. "Cat's foot!" she exclaimed. "I hope I haven't got where I need to borrow money yet a while. Thank you just as much, deary, but long's I've got two hands and a mouth, I'll make the two keep t'other reasonably full, I wouldn't wonder. No, I shan't think of it, so don't say another word. No." The negative was so decided that Grace was silenced. Her disappointment showed in her face, however, and Keziah hastened to change the subject.

"How do you know," she observed, "but what my goin' to Boston may be the best thing that ever happened to me? You can't tell. No use despairin', Annabel ain't given up hope yet; why should I? Hey? Ain't that somebody comin'?"

Her companion sprang to her feet and ran to the window. Then she broke into a smothered laugh. "Why, it's Kyan Pepper!" she exclaimed. "He must be coming to see you, Aunt Keziah. And he's got on his very best Sunday clothes. Gracious! I must be going. I didn't know you expected callers."

Keziah dropped the tack hammer and stood up.

"Kyan!" she repeated. "What in the world is that old idiot comin' here for? To talk about the minister, I s'pose. How on earth did Lavinia ever come to let him out alone?"

Mr. Pepper, Mr. Abishai Pepper, locally called "Kyan" (Cayenne) Pepper because of his red hair and thin red side whiskers, was one of Trumet's "characters," and in his case the character was weak. He was born in the village and, when a youngster, had, like every other boy of good family in the community, cherished ambitions for a seafaring life. His sister, Lavinia, ten years older than he, who, after the death of their parents, had undertaken the job of "bringin' up"

Healthy Mothers

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the crisis finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the rearing of her child.

Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

her brother, did not sympathize with these ambitions. Consequently, when Kyan ran away she followed him to Boston, stalked aboard the vessel where he had shipped, and collared him, literally and figuratively. One of the mates venturing to offer objection, Lavinia turned upon him and gave him a piece of her mind, to the immense delight of the crew and the loungers on the wharf. Then she returned with the vagrant to Trumet.

That was Kyan's sole venture, so far as sailing was concerned, but he ran away again when he was twenty-five. This time he returned of his own accord, bringing a wife with him, one Evelyn Gott of Ostable. Evelyn could talk a bit herself, and her first interview with Lavinia ended with the latter's leaving the house in a rage, swearing never to set foot in it again. This oath she broke the day of her sister-in-law's funeral. Then she appeared, after the ceremony, her baggage on the wagon with her. The bereaved one, who was sitting on the front stoop of his dwelling with, so people say, a most resigned expression on his meek countenance, looked up and saw her.

"My land! Lavinia," he exclaimed, turning pale. "Where'd you come from?"

"Never mind where I come from," observed his sister promptly. "You just be thankful I've come. If ever a body needed some one to take care of 'em, it's you. You can tote my things right in," she added, turning to her grinning driver, "and you, 'Bishy, go right in with 'em. The idea of your settin' outside takin' it easy when your poor wife ain't been buried more'n an hour!"

"But—but—Lavinia," protested poor Kyan, speaking the truth unwittingly, "I couldn't take it easy afore she was buried, could I?"

"Go right in," was the answer.

"March!"

Abishai marched, and had marched under his sister's orders ever since. She kept house for him, and did it well, but her one fear was that some female might again capture him, and she watched him with an eagle eye. He was the town assessor and tax collector, but when he visited dwellings containing single women or widows, Lavinia always accompanied him, "to help him in his fingerin'," she said.

Consequently, when he appeared, unchaperoned, on the walk leading to the side door of the Coffin homestead, Keziah and her friend were surprised.

"He's dressed to kill," whispered Grace, at the window. "Even his tall hat; and in this fog! I do believe he's coming courtin', Aunt Keziah."

Mr. Pepper entered diffidently.

"I—I—" he began. "Well, the fact is, I came out by myself. You see, Lavinia's gone up to Sarah B.'s to talk church doin's. I—I—well, I kind of wanted to speak with you about some-thing, Keziah, so— Oh! I didn't see you, Grace. Good mornin'!"

He didn't seem overjoyed to see Miss Van Horne, as it was. In fact, he reddened perceptibly and backed toward the door. The girl, her eyes twinkling, took up her jacket and hat. "Oh! I'm not going to stop, Mr. Pepper," she said. "I was only helpin' Aunt Keziah a little, that's all. I must run on now."

"Run on—nonsense!" declared Keziah decisively. "You're goin' to stay right here and help us get that stove-pipe down. And 'Bishy'll help, too. Won't you, 'Bishy?"

The stovepipe was attached to the "air-tight" in the dining room. It—the pipe—rose perpendicularly for a few feet and then extended horizontally, over the high-boy, until it entered the wall. Kyan looked at it and then at his "Sunday clothes."

"Why, I'd be glad to, of course," he declared with dubious enthusiasm. "But I don't know's I'll have time. Perhaps I'd better come later and do it. Lavinia, she—"

"Oh, Lavinia can spare you for a few minutes, I guess; specially as she don't know you're out. Better take your coat off, hadn't you? Grace, fetch one of those chairs for Ky—for 'Bishy to stand on."

Grace obediently brought the chair. It happened to be the one with a rickety leg, but its owner was helping the reluctant Abishai remove the long-tailed blue coat which had been his wedding garment and had adorned his person on occasions of ceremony ever since. She did not notice the chair.

"It's real good of you to offer to help," she said. "Grace and I didn't hardly dares to try it alone. That pipe's been up so long that I wouldn't wonder if 'twas chock-full of soot. If you're careful, though, I don't believe you'll get any on you. Never mind the floor; I'm goin' to wash that before I leave."

Reluctantly, slowly, the unwilling Mr. Pepper suffered himself to be led to the chair. He mounted it and gingerly took hold of the pipe.

"Better loosen it at the stove hole first," advised Keziah. "What was it you wanted to see me about, 'Bishy?"

"Oh nothin', nothin'," was the hasty response. "Nothin' of any account—that is to say—"

Sherwood Hill to Pontotoc Ct. Voters.

If you believe that a man who has made good in his first term of office is worthy of consideration for the 2nd term I ask your vote in tomorrow's primary. I have been a citizen of Ada 12 years. The cotton business has always been the line in which I have supported myself and family. I have always tried to be a public spirited citizen, have contributed as liberally as my means would admit to every public enterprise in Ada or the up-building of Ada and have helped build every church in Ada and some in the county. My record will show that I have done my part toward the advancement of the Christian religion and the support of the church of which I am a member. I ask comparison in that respect. I have never been other than a democrat. I gave $25.00 five years ago and $10.00 two years ago, to the state democratic campaign fund and expect to contribute liberally to both state and nationally to both state and national time. I do not drink intoxicants in any form, and have not done so during my term of office. If I have overlooked any of you in my campaign it was not intentional and I will appreciate your vote in tomorrow's primary assuring you that I will try my utmost to make as good an officer in the future as in the past.

Your obedient servant,
SHERWOOD HILL.

Howard Parker, although kept at Oklahoma City most of the time by the duties of his office, has lost none of his interest in Ada. It keeps him busy, however, shaking hands with his many friends when here, for the whole crew is always glad to see his cheerful face. He still feels very much at home at the News office, as might be expected, for during his term of service on the paper, he learned to love it and still feels a deep interest in its welfare.

Wilson Dress-hooks

If you wish to improve the appearance of your garments and avoid the embarrassment of an unhooked and gaping skirt or waist, don't fail to try Wilson Dress-hooks.

We recommend them, as they can't come unhooked accidentally, are flat and invisible and will outwear several garments.

Can't rust or crush in washing and ironing. Not like hooks and eyes or snap fasteners.

CHAMPIONS WALLOP OUT- LAWS AGAIN

Game of Saturday Results in Victory for Home Team by Score of 9 to 5.

The Ada Champions again made the Allen Outlaws bite the dust, though not to such a tune as they did Friday. Feeling humiliated over the result of the game Friday, the Allen bunch came back with a determination to win, but, when the Ada boys piled up four runs in the first inning, the Outlaws seemed to lose heart, but played none the less earnestly. Kuntz, the Allen pitcher, struck out six men, but let the opponents get nine hits off his delivery, two being for three bases and one for two.

The victory for Ada is due mainly to the playing of four men, three of whom are old heads. These four were John and Clyde Kaiser, Hale and Pat Jones. The game was a plain contest between hard work and an inside knowledge of the game, and the inside knowledge was with Ada and won. Reed and McCain, who did such fine work in the game Friday, seemed to be unable to connect with the ball in Saturday's game. Riddle also did not do the good work he usually does.

Pat Jones is becoming a favorite with all Ada fans. He struck out eight men and allowed only three hits. Had he been given even fair support in the field he would have had a shut out game. Asbury was out of his place on first base; and, while he played a good base, he did not show up as he usually does.

Ada made four runs in the first inning. J. Kaiser singled and was forced out at second on Riddle's bunt. Riddle scored on Asbury's three bagger. Asbury scored on Ellis's single. C. Kaiser was safe on Russell's error. Ellis scored when Hale hit to first base, and Kaiser scored on McCain's single.

From a wild throw by McCain, a stolen base, and an infield hit, Allen scored one run in the third. One more was made in the fourth on a single, a steal, and a sacrifice fly.

No more runs were made till the eighth round. Caudel for Ada was safe on Russell's wild throw, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored on C. Kaiser's three bagger. Kaiser scored on a wild throw to first. Jones singled, and Reed went to third. Riddle ran for Jones, stole second, and he and Reed scored on J. Kaiser's two bagger.

Allen added three in the ninth. Ballenger was safe on Reed's error. Norman was safe on Caudel's error. Ballenger scored on Clary's two bagger. Norman scored on Milner's sacrifice fly. Clary scored on a wild pitch.

Indiana Republicans.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 5.—A dozen names are under discussion for the head of the ticket to be nominated by the Indiana republicans in state convention here tomorrow. As the republican candidates must meet the opposition of the progressives as well as the democrats at the November election the party leaders are endeavoring to bring about the nomination of the strongest men they can find.

Winfield T. Durbin of Anderson, who was governor from 1901 to 1905, Mayor Lew Shank of Indianapolis, who came into national prominence through his crusade to reduce the high cost of living; Addison C. Harris of Indianapolis, former United States minister to Austria-Hungary; Col. George R. Lockwood, editor of the Marion Chronicle; Judge David W. Henry of Terre Haute, President W. W. Parsons of the Indiana Normal school, Charles A. Carlisle, a prominent business man of South Bend; James W. Emison, president of Cincinnatus University, Walter Olds of St. Wayne and L. C. Embree of Princeton are among those who are under consideration for the nomination for governor.

For lieutenant-governor Sidney K. Ganiard, of LaRage, is regarded as the leading candidate, although there are several others in the field. For the other places on the state ticket there is a general disposition to give the nominations to the men who were the nominees two years ago.

LABOR ENDORSES NIBLACK.

Practice Far Better Than Theory; Friend of Organized Labor.

Whereas, Leslie G. Niblack an honorary member of Typographical Union No. 587, who for many years has been an employer of union labor, always in sympathy with and an advocate of our principles, is now a candidate for the nomination of congressman-at-large and

Whereas, it is a fixed rule of the Typographical and affiliated unions to give its united support to those in sympathy with the principles of organized labor, therefore,

Be it resolved, that Guthrie Typographical Union No. 287, at a special meeting, held this July 9th, hereby heartily and enthusiastically endorses the candidacy of Mr. Niblack and calls upon the affiliated trades of the state to not only support but work for the election of Mr. Niblack. It is one thing to profess sympathy with organized labor, but "practice is far better than theory" or empty profession. In the past organized labor has supported men for election, who, professing friendship for labor proved recreant to the trust imposed in them. A man is known by his work. For a long period of years Niblack has been a firm and unqualified friend of organized labor, employing none but regularly constituted union men; a record that is not equalled by any other newspaper proprietor in the state an done which vouchsafes his loyalty to organized labor on the floor of congress if he is elected. We heartily commend his candidacy to organized labor of the state of Oklahoma.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mr. Niblack and also sent to the press of the state. Passed unanimously this 9th day of July, 1912.

CONGRESS MAY ADJOURN SOON

Washington, Aug. 4.—Congress will begin tomorrow what is expected to be the last fortnight of the present session. Adjournment by Aug. 15 or 17 is confidently expected. The postponement of the Archbald impeachment trial until Dec. 3 has cleared the decks of the senate so action on the remaining legislative matters can be pushed to a speedy finish. Uncertainty exists as to the failure of some of the appropriation bills still at issue between the senate and the house. The determination to abolish the Commerce Court and to place a seven year tenure of office in the civil service law has aroused antagonism, which may be reflected from the White House in a veto of the bill appropriating money for the salaries of federal employees.

This contingency has been anticipated by the leaders of both houses and an effort is to be made Monday to complete the legislative; executive and judicial appropriation bill so it may be sent at once to the president. In case of an executive veto, it is believed it can again be considered, passed and resubmitted to him in amended form without seriously delaying plans for adjournment.

Action on tariff bills and a reopening of the two battleships fight in the house will be features of this week's session. The senate will act on the compromise wool tariff bill tomorrow and will probably agree to it as the house has done. A meeting of the conference committee on the excise tax bill Monday or Tuesday is expected to result in an agreement that will send that measure also to President Taft during the week.

It has been asserted by the president's friends in both houses that he will veto all of the tariff bills that reach him. Such action would be accepted as final by congress and no attempt would be made at this session to repass the measures.

The democrats of the house will take up the battleship question in caucus again Tuesday. The leaders in the fight for at least one new man-o-war in this year's naval building program succeeded in forcing the third caucus on the subject and it is believed they will control the situation. If the house agrees to one ship, the senate is expected to accept the compromise, although it wants two.

Many of the most important appropriation bills remain to be completed and the senate has not as yet completed half of the expected debate on the Panama Canal administration bill. Both houses will begin daily sessions at 10 o'clock this week, however, and probably will sit evenings from 8 to 12, making twelve hours daily. Under such circumstances, business can be entirely disposed of, it is believed, within the time predicted by the advocates of early adjournment.

State Rich in Glass Sand.

Norman, Ok., Aug. 5.—The Oklahoma Geological Survey has just completed an exhaustive study of the glass sands of the state and finds that Oklahoma is rich in deposits of this material. Frank Buttram, Chemist of the Survey has been in charge of the work which has been pursued continuously for several months. His report has just been sent to press.

D. W. Ohern, Director of the Survey, said today that Mr. Buttram had studied in the field every deposit of glass sand in the state and had made accurate analyses in the laboratory. The most valuable deposits found are at Crusher and Roff in the Arbuckle mountain region and at Ardmore, Durwood, Madill, Durant, Atoka and Tahlequah. The quantity of sand in these localities is practically inexhaustible. The analyses show that the quality is equal to and in most cases better than that of the famous Missouri sands.

We are now securing from Missouri the sand for our six glass plants. The Survey says we can now supply these factories with a superior grade of Oklahoma sand and save a vast amount in freight besides keeping the money within the state. The glass factories are in the state because of cheap fuel. The Survey says that the glass industry will be of much greater value to the state if the home raw material is used and that every inducement will be offered to have the plants change their source of supply.

COOL WEATHER IN PROSPECT THIS WEEK

Washington, Aug. 4.—Further respite from unusually warm weather in any part of the country during the next week or ten days was indicated tonight in a bulletin issued by the Weather Bureau.

"The first part of the coming week," the bulletin says, "will give moderate temperatures in the Eastern and Southern States, followed by a change to somewhat warmer weather the latter half of the week. Over the Middle West and Northwest moderate temperatures for the season is probable throughout the week, while west of the Rocky Mountains temperatures will average near or slightly below the normal."

"The weather during the week will be generally fair except for a short period of local rains attending the eastward movement of a disturbance that will appear in the Far West Tuesday or Wednesday, cross the Middle West about Thursday and the Eastern states near the end of the week. Cooler weather will follow this disturbance."

Advantage Taken on Last Day. (Political Adv.)

It is evident that the crowd against whom I made the attack has been lurking in the underbrush to try to make an ambush attack I take this method of informing the voters of Pontotoc County that I can prove to them that there has been almost every subterfuge possible used to get them to line up with one or the other of my opponents by some of the parties opposing me for the position of STATE COMMITTEEMAN.

There are no great number of people implicated only a few of the would-be politicians that seek to handle every election that is held in the county.

I cannot know what their reply will be but I ask that you consider the fact that they are making a last desperate effort to carry your vote to certain defeat.

"POLY TICKS" has ever been their long suit and believe me they are dying a hard death at the hands of the honest voters of Pontotoc county, as the result will show when the votes are counted.

My greatest opposition will center here at home where I have hardly mentioned the fact of my candidacy to my nearest neighbors, and if I cannot get the vote of my friends without begging for them, when they understand the situation I deem it well to let the people of Ada know that I have made no great effort at home where the people know me, believing them ready to vote as their judgment dictates, without cajoling them. It is simply a matter of knowing what each man stands for before the people and I am willing to rest my case at the polls on tomorrow and if they desire to try muck-raking on the last day I can reply to them later. I believe in honest elections. C. T. ANGEL.

Knights of Yuthias Meet.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 5.—Many prominent members of the Knights of Pythias, from every state of the Union and nearly all of the Canadian provinces, are arriving in Denver for the meeting here this week of the twenty-seventh biennial session of the Supreme lodge. Contrary to the custom in the past the encampment of the Uniform Rank is not to be held this year in conjunction with the supreme lodge convention. There will be a meeting, however, of the allied organization, the Pythian Sisters.

The Meeting at Center.

We shall begin a meeting at Center, ten miles west of Ada on Friday night before the third Sunday. We wish to make this meeting more than just a meeting for the community. We wish to help the communities and churches in the country around Center. We therefore invite all the people in the western part of the county and especially members of the churches and any body who will come to take part in this meeting. We would be glad to have the teachers with us who are not engaged in meetings at that time.

Those who live too far to attend from home could camp. The facilities for camping will be ample. We have an ideal place for a meeting, a large tabernacle well seated and lighted. But the best equipment is the good people of our community who stand ready to give every one a hearty welcome and a helping hand who will co meto our meeting.

The pastor will be assisted in the meeting by Rev. H. E. Neighbour of Roff.

We earnestly solicit you to come and help us and we shall endeavor to help you. Fraternally yours,

W. A. HALL,

TOO STRENUOUS A JOB

MOSQUITO EXTERMINATOR HAS HAD ENOUGH.

Recently Went Through Experience That is Much as Admitted Was Calculated to Discourage Almost Any One.

Charles F. Stedler, marshal of Verona, N. J., is also chief mosquito exterminator of that city. It is his duty to hunt out the breeding places of the winged raptors that make New Jersey famous and deluge their larvae with kerosene oil. The life of the chief mosquito exterminator has been a tranquil one. But recently the foe of Jersey's curse met with an experience that confines him to his bed under the care of a physician.

The chief exterminator and his able assistant, Thomas Brennan, set out to visit some marshy land at the head of Verona lake. As the chief exterminator stood upon a bog pouring oil upon the hatchery of a flock of mosquitoes his foot slipped and into the mire went the marshal.

Before Brennan could grasp him the chief exterminator had sunk to his armpits. Brennan labored hard to pull his colleague from the bog, and, with a frantic yank at his chief's coat collar, he, too, slipped and joined his companion. The two struggled in the bog as did Bunyan, but to no avail.

Then, almost engulfed, they raised their voices and roared for aid. Little Hughie Ervine heard the wild calls from the bog and saw two heads protruding above the mire. Hughie tore several boards from a nearby fence and built a walk to the spot where the mosquito terrorists lustily struggled for freedom. But Hughie could do nothing more, and the moments were precious, for each convulsive effort only settled the mosquito catchers deeper in their miry prison.

Hughie was dispatched for instant aid. He qualified for the Olympic team in his sprint up the road to David Slayback's place. David set forth in his motor car with a long rope.

Slayback, with Hughie's aid, dragged Brennan from the bog. For almost two hours they labored, and Stedler was almost ready to close his eyes and murmur, "Farewell, struck world," when Slayback was struck with a brilliant idea. He fastened one end of the rope under the chief exterminator's arms. The other end was tossed over the branch of a nearby oak and then tied to the rear of the motor car.

Slayback took his seat in the car and grasped the starting lever. Brennan raised his hand and Slayback put on full power ahead. It was a hard pull. The chief exterminator almost was pulled apart, but up into the air he finally shot and dangled twist box and blue sky, dripping ooze and words of anguish.

As far as the chief exterminator is concerned, all the mosquitoes in Jersey can go to blazes. He said so himself, only his verbiage was more strenuous.

Not Ashamed of Cowardice.
The idea that nothing is so disgraceful as cowardice is one that is not held by all races. Among the Bedouins a sheik may be the leader of his tribe only in peace. When there is war, the chances are that he will relinquish his leadership to the fighting sheik.

"I have not the gift of courage," once said an Arab chief to an Englishman, apologizing for not putting himself at the head of a band that he had sent to attack another tribe.

The Englishman learned that these nomads esteem personal bravery as a gift, for the want of which a man is no more to be censured than he is to be blamed for not being handsome.

A Bengali says, without the least sense of shame, "I am timid." Yet he will meet death, even when it approaches in the form of the hangman, with the composure of a martyr.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Would Not Consider Deities.
J. C. Stubbs, the Southern Pacific official, hasn't a great deal of patience with amateurs and those uninformed in the railroad game, and he is said to have told this story to illustrate the "wisdom" of an incipient railroad, magnate.

When the stock holders of the Valley railroad were meeting in 1893 to plan the construction of the new line matters of detail were taken up among them, for even the smallest stock holder wanted a finger in the construction pie.

At one meeting a director who had to do with the engineering problems of construction asked, "How heavy shall the fish plates be?"

A stock holder growled, "What are we bothering with the dining car features for now? Let's go ahead and build the road first."

Not a Moral Objection.
A dance hall manager who could never by any stretch of the imagination be accused of harboring aesthetically convicted came out unequivocally against the season's dances.

"I am pleased to hear you take that stand," said a reformer. "Leaving morality out of the question, they are certainly ugly."

"Oh, I wasn't thinking about that," said the manager. "I'm dead set against them because it takes more room to dance them in. My hall, that will hold 250 couples for ordinary dancing, now accommodates only 200 couples, and I lose all that money."

The angels kept their place, waiting for the sign, and the summons at the gate of Heaven.

Everything began to take on a sombre hue. The child was very sick. The household took no note of time, and the daily routine was forgotten, and the face of the little boy was watched with tender solicitude. The doctor was called, but what can he do when the gates are open, and Messengers of life and death are bidden to go, saying: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not."

The day closed, and night quieted the troubled earth. The cool shadow was grateful after the heated day, and Jupiter, the mighty world, lead the hosts of Heaven with great brilliancy in the South and lighted the way that angels tread.

As the moments passed the baby grew worse, and the household saw nothing, heard nothing but the face of the child and the flickering pulse. It was 9 o'clock when the Messengers entered with noiseless feet. They touched the eyes and the pulse of the little sufferer, and the calm of Heaven fell upon him.

How strange is life, and how mysterious is the flight. But somehow, by life and by death we are to be made infinite gainers.

Why Many Predict That Franklin Will Lead the Ticket for Congressman-at-Large.

WILLIAM M. FRANKLIN.

Nothing can truthfully be said against his character or his record as a public servant. He is one candidate who invites an investigation into his past life and record.

He was chairman of the Legal Advisory committee, the highest committee in the senate, and during five sessions of the legislature, since statehood, he has missed answering to the roll call only two days.

He places human welfare above all other problems, contending that personal welfare is a legitimate object of government.

He has also stood for economy in the expenditure of our public moneys, for the abolishment of useless offices, and against graft in every form, and he has the fearlessness to assume responsibility.

He has been referred to in the Press as "One of the most highly praised men in Oklahoma politics," "A doer of good things," "Absolutely fearless and incorruptible," "A man who has the good of the people in view," "A able speaker and an effective campaigner," "A sure winner."

"Father of more legislation than had the good of the people in view than any other," and that "He is not a political trickster, but real honesty is his prevailing characteristic."

His speeches have been referred to in the Press as the "Quintessence of Political Wisdom," "One of the finest talks it has been our lot to hear," "One of the best political treatises ever experienced in our town," "One of the most masterful addresses that the voters have had the pleasure of hearing," and he is referred to as "One of the most able and capable men on the ticket."

In the report of the Oklahoma State Federation of Union Labor it is declared that "Franklin came through the session with the grandest record for legislation in his name of any man in either house."

In voting for him you will take no chances and you will help a self-made man who has made good.

MOSQUITO EXTERMINATOR HAS HAD ENOUGH.

Recently Went Through Experience That is Much as Admitted Was Calculated to Discourage Almost Any One.

Charles F. Stedler, marshal of Verona, N. J., is also chief mosquito exterminator of that city. It is his duty to hunt out the breeding places of the winged raptors that make New Jersey famous and deluge their larvae with kerosene oil. The life of the chief mosquito exterminator has been a tranquil one. But recently the foe of Jersey's curse met with an experience that confines him to his bed under the care of a physician.

The chief exterminator and his able assistant, Thomas Brennan, set out to visit some marshy land at the head of Verona lake. As the chief exterminator stood upon a bog pouring oil upon the hatchery of a flock of mosquitoes his foot slipped and into the mire went the marshal.

Before Brennan could grasp him the chief exterminator had sunk to his armpits. Brennan labored hard to pull his colleague from the bog, and, with a frantic yank at his chief's coat collar, he, too, slipped and joined his companion. The two struggled in the bog as did Bunyan, but to no avail.

Then, almost engulfed, they raised their voices and roared for aid. Little Hughie Ervine heard the wild calls from the bog and saw two heads protruding above the mire. Hughie tore several boards from a nearby fence and built a walk to the spot where the mosquito terrorists lustily struggled for freedom. But Hughie could do nothing more, and the moments were precious, for each convulsive effort only settled the mosquito catchers deeper in their miry prison.

Hughie was dispatched for instant aid. He qualified for the Olympic team in his sprint up the road to David Slayback's place. David set forth in his motor car with a long rope.

Slayback, with Hughie's aid, dragged Brennan from the bog. For almost two hours they labored, and Stedler was almost ready to close his eyes and murmur, "Farewell, struck world," when Slayback was struck with a brilliant idea. He fastened one end of the rope under the chief exterminator's arms. The other end was tossed over the branch of a nearby oak and then tied to the rear of the motor car.

Slayback took his seat in the car and grasped the starting lever. Brennan raised his hand and Slayback put on full power ahead. It was a hard pull. The chief exterminator almost was pulled apart, but up into the air he finally shot and dangled twist box and blue sky, dripping ooze and words of anguish.

As far as the chief exterminator is concerned, all the mosquitoes in Jersey can go to blazes. He said so himself, only his verbiage was more strenuous.

Not Ashamed of Cowardice.
The idea that nothing is so disgraceful as cowardice is one that is not held by all races. Among the Bedouins a sheik may be the leader of his tribe only in peace. When there is war, the chances are that he will relinquish his leadership to the fighting sheik.

"I have not the gift of courage," once said an Arab chief to an Englishman, apologizing for not putting himself at the head of a band that he had sent to attack another tribe.

The Englishman learned that these nomads esteem personal bravery as a gift, for the want of which a man is no more to be censured than he is to be blamed for not being handsome.

A Bengali says, without the least sense of shame, "I am timid." Yet he will meet death, even when it approaches in the form of the hangman, with the composure of a martyr.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Would Not Consider Deities.
J. C. Stubbs, the Southern Pacific official, hasn't a great deal of patience with amateurs and those uninformed in the railroad game, and he is said to have told this story to illustrate the "wisdom" of an incipient railroad, magnate.

When the stock holders of the Valley railroad were meeting in 1893 to plan the construction of the new line matters of detail were taken up among them, for even the smallest stock holder wanted a finger in the construction pie.

At one meeting a director who had to do with the engineering problems of construction asked, "How heavy shall the fish plates be?"

A stock holder growled, "What are we bothering with the dining car features for now? Let's go ahead and build the road first."

Not a Moral Objection.
A dance hall manager who could never by any stretch of the imagination be accused of harboring aesthetically convicted came out unequivocally against the season's dances.

"I am pleased to hear you take that stand," said a reformer. "Leaving morality out of the question, they are certainly ugly."

"Oh, I wasn't thinking about that," said the manager. "I'm dead set against them because it takes more room to dance them in. My hall, that will hold 250 couples for ordinary dancing, now accommodates only 200 couples, and I lose all that money."

V HEAVY RAIN FALLS AT ADA

The drouth was broken Sunday morning by a rain that kept up a steady gait from 8:30 until noon. Although it came rather late, it will still be of material benefit to corn, causing it to fill out better than it would otherwise have done. Of course cotton will be greatly benefitted and unless some pest appears, a good crop will undoubtedly be made.

As for the corn, some very good crops are reported, in spite of the dry weather. A. L. Kennedy, the demonstration agent, who has been over much of the county, is of the opinion that the corn crop of the county will average better than twenty bushels per acre.

A good rain is reported over most of the county, but across the Canadian it is reported very light.

SILLO DEMONSTRATION AT LAWRENCE QUARRY

The cement company is giving a celebration today at the Lawrence quarry by way of demonstrating the use of the Silo. Several hundred invitations to farmers of the county were sent out last week, and it was the plan of the company to entertain them with an informal barbecue. A full account of the day's events will be given in tomorrow's paper.

Can't Remit Tax Penalty.
Oklahoma City, Okk., Aug. 4.—That neither county treasurers nor county commissioners have authority to remit the legal penalty on back taxes is the opinion of Attorney General West, who states that the treasurer is liable for any such amounts, and that any treasurer attempting to remit will be sued on his bond.

The attorney general has also advised county treasurers not to accept the amounts tendered by the Santa Fe Railroad in payment of 1908 taxes, except as partial payment unless accompanied by the 18 per cent penalty. He states that the decision of the United States circuit court in the case brought by the Santa Fe has been affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals, but that the case will be taken to the United States supreme court.

JOHNSON BROTHERS ESTABLISH CANNERY

Johnson brothers are preparing to establish and operate a cannery at their orchard near the brick plant. A part of their machinery is already on the ground and the rest is on the road, together with 50,000 cans. The outfit is a steam plant and will have a capacity of 5,000 to 10,000 cans per day. It is the plan of the owners to can a large quantity of fruit from their orchard and also can for others as orders may come in. This industry should be a paying one, for there will be plenty to do and it will have the effect of stimulating the growing of things suitable for canning purposes.

ADMISSION TEN AND FIFTEEN CENTS

A Statement from Wm. H. Braley.

(Political Adv.)
To the Democratic Voters of Pontotoc County:

When I entered the race for State Committeeman in this county I did not intend to make an extensive campaign nor break into print for two reasons:

First: I felt that my activity in the democratic party in this locality made it possible that most of the democrats that had been in this county any length of time knew me personally and knew whether I was qualified to fill the office or not.

Second: That there is no salary or remuneration attached to this office the voters would look on it as preposterous for a candidate to spend any great amount of time or money in campaigning for an office of this kind.

One of my opponents, Mr. Angel has seen fit to break into print on numerous occasions and from the tone of his article in the Evening News of August 3rd, would try to impress the voters that he was the only one qualified to act as "Guardian Angel" of the democrats in this county. As for me I do not take the position of the "Holler than Thou," but simply desire to remain one of the ordinary rank and file of the party and serve in such way and manner as it seemeth best to the largest number of democratic voters.

I wish to reply to a part of his article in this manner. Mr. Angel starts out by charging that there is a deal on foot to single shot in this race as against him. I will say this charge is too preposterous to answer. In order that he may not fool somebody on this proposition I will explain. It would be impossible to single shot on an office where there was only one to be elected, which any intelligent man can see without figuring any further.

As to the so-called "gang" he refers to I don't have the slightest idea who or what he refers to, for in my judgment any man with political sense can see that in a hot campaign such as we are having in this county with as many candidates it would be impossible to form any kind of combination or "ring" as he calls it. It does not take a great amount of common sense to see this is true.

Mr. Angel winds up by saying he has no fear of defeat as he expects to carry three-fourths of the boxes in this county by a large majority. If he is honest and conscientious in this statement why does he make this howl. There are four of us in this race and if he carries three-fourths of the boxes by a large majority there will only be a small portion of the other one-fourth left to be divided between the other three candidates in this race. If this is the actual situation why is he frightened?

It may not have occurred to the voters that there are two kinds of Angels referred to in the Bible and in any method that reduces the labor about the household. Electricity saves many steps and is the best servant you could install in your home. A few of the many things you are able to accomplish with the use of electricity besides lighting your home: There is washing the clothes, operating the sewing machine, cooking, baking, heating and ironing. Electricity is no longer a luxury—it's a necessity.

Hale-Halsell Men Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bailey returned this morning from McAlester where they attended the banquet given to the 45 managers and salesmen of the Hale-Halsell Gro. Co. on Saturday evening, August 3rd, at the Busby hotel. After dinner the gentlemen met for business. At 10:30 they joined the ladies at the elegant home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hale where they enjoyed refreshments and were royally entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meadors and Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Meadors while in the city.

Judge Furman reports that it did not rain at Oklahoma City yesterday morning, and that everything around there is still dry and the prospect not nearly as good as at Ada. The judge seems to be in better health than for sometime past.

"His Other Self," is a drama that will be presented at the DeSota this evening. Another attraction will be "Portuguese Joe." Republican national convention at Chicago will also be a strong attraction for those who are interested in that memorable gathering. The DeSota gives its patrons a variety.

Wm. Bauhaus returned yesterday from a trip to his old home at Quincy, Ill. He reports that it is drier there than here and conditions nothing like as favorable.

This evening the Lyric will present high class vaudeville. It has been fortunate in securing "The Gals from Arkansas" and they are guaranteed to make every one laugh. A reward of $10 to the person who doesn't. Also 2,000 feet of high class pictures.

A Statement from Wm. H. Braley.

(Political Adv.)

To the Democratic Voters of Pontotoc County:

When I entered the race for State Committeeman in this county I did not intend to make an extensive campaign nor break into print for two reasons.

First: I felt that my activity in the democratic party in this locality made it possible that most of the democrats that had been in this county any length of time knew me personally and knew whether I was qualified to fill the office or not.

Second: That there is no salary or remuneration attached to this office the voters would look on it as preposterous for a candidate to spend any great amount of time or money in campaigning for an office of this kind.

One of my opponents, Mr. Angel has seen fit to break into print on numerous occasions and from the tone of his article in the Evening News of August 3rd, would try to impress the voters that he was the only one qualified to act as "Guardian Angel" of the democrats in this county. As for me I do not take the position of the "Holler than Thou," but simply desire to remain one of the ordinary rank and file of the party and serve in such way and manner as it seemeth best to the largest number of democratic voters.

I wish to reply to a part of his article in this manner, Mr. Angel starts out by charging that there is a deal on foot to single shot in this race as against him. I will say this charge is too preposterous to answer. In order that he may not fool somebody on this proposition I will explain. It would be impossible to single shot on an office where there was only one to be elected, which any intelligent man can see without figuring any further.

As to the so-called "gang" he refers to I don't have the slightest idea who or what he refers to, for in my judgment any man with political sense can see that in a hot campaign such as we are having in this county with as many candidates it would be impossible to form any kind of combination or "ring" as he calls it. It does not take a great amount of common sense to see this is true.

Mr. Angel winds up by saying he has no fear of defeat as he expects to carry three-fourths of the boxes in this county by a large majority. If he is honest and conscientious in this statement why does he make this howl. There are four of us in this race and if he carries three-fourths of the boxes by a large majority there will only be a small portion of the other one-fourth left to be divided between the other three candidates in this race. If this is the actual situation why is he frightened?

It may not have occurred to the voters that there are two kinds of Angels referred to in the Bible and

CHAPTER I.

On Which Keziah Hears Two Proposals and the Beginning of a Third.

Trumet in a fog; a fog blown in during the night by the wind from the wide Atlantic. So wet and heavy that one might taste the salt in it. So thick that houses along the main road were but dim shapes behind its gray drapery, and only the gates and fences of the front yards were plainly in evidence to the passers-by. The beach pines and bayberry bushes on the dunes were spangled with beady drops. The pole on Cannon Hill, where the beacon was hoisted when the packet from Boston dropped anchor in the bay, was shiny and slippery. The new weather-vane, a gilded whale, presented to the "Regular" church by Captain Sebediah Mayo, retired whaler, swam in a sea of cloud. The lichen-covered eaves of the little "Come-Outer" chapel dripped at sad intervals. The brick walk leading to the door of Captain Elkanah Daniels's fine residence held unadorned puddles in its hollows. And, through the damp stillness, the muttered growl of the surf, three miles away at the foot of the sandy folks in it was the Old Harry himself, and he was pretty good-looking!" Grace laughed, even though she had been somewhat shocked.

"Why, Aunt Keziah!" she exclaimed—those who knew Keziah Coffin best usually called her aunt, though real nephews and nieces she had none—"why, Aunt Keziah! What do you mean by comparing the person you just mentioned with a minister!"

"Oh, I wasn't comparin' 'em; I'll leave that for you Come-Outers to do. Drat this carpet! Seems 's if I never saw such long tacks; I do believe whoever put 'em down drove 'em clean through the center of the earth and let the Chinymen clinch 'em on t'other side. I haul up a chunk of the cellar floor with every one. Ah, hum!" with a sigh, "I cal'late they ain't any more anxious to leave home than I am. But, far's the minister's concerned, didn't I hear of your Uncle Eben sayin' in prayer meetin' only a fortnit or so ago that all hands who wasn't Come-Outers were own children to Satan?"

Mr. Ellery must take after his father some. Surprisin', a'n't it, what a family the old critter's got."

The girl laughed again. For one brought up, since her seventh year, in the strictest of Come-Outer families, she laughed a good deal. Many Come-Outers considered it wicked to laugh. Yet Grace did it, and hers was a laugh pleasant to hear and distinctly pleasant to see.

"Aunt Keziah," she said, "why do you go away? What makes you? Is it absolutely necessary?"

"Why do I go? Why, for the same reason that the feller that was hooveboard left the ship—'cause I can't stay."

"I don't care!" The girl's dark eyes flashed indignantly. "I think it's too bad of Cap'n Elkanah to turn you out when—"

"Don't talk that way. He ain't turnin' me out. He ain't lettin' houses for his health and he'll need the money to buy his daughter's summer rig. She ain't had a new dress for a month, pretty near, and here's a young and good-looking parson heavin' in sight. Maybe Cap'n Elkanah would think a minister was high-toned enough even for Annabel to marry."

"He's only twenty-three, they say," remarked Grace, a trifle maliciously. "Perhaps she'll accept him."

Annabel was the only child of Captain Elkanah Daniels, who owned the finest house in town. She was the belle of Trumet, and had been for a good many years.

Grace smiled, but quickly grew grave.

"Now, Auntie," she said, "please listen. I'm in earnest. It seems to me that you might do quite well at dressmaking here in town, if you had a little—well, ready money to help you at the start. I've got a few hundred dollars in the bank, presents from uncle, and my father's insurance money. I should like to lend it to you, and I know uncle would—"

She broke into a smothered laugh. "of it, so don't say another word. No." The negative was so decided that Grace was silenced. Her disappointment showed in her face, however, and Keziah hastened to change the subject.

"How do you know," she observed, "but what my goin' to Boston may be the best thing that ever happened to me? You can't tell. No use despairin', Annabel ain't given up hope yet; why should I? Hey? Ain't that somebody comin'?"

Her companion sprang to her feet and ran to the window. Then she broke into a smothered laugh.

"Why, it's Kyan Pepper!" she exclaimed. "He must be coming to see you, Aunt Keziah. And he's got on his very best Sunday clothes. Gracious! I must be going. I didn't know you expected callers."

Keziah dropped the tack hammer and stood up.

"Kyan!" she repeated. "What in the world is that old idiot comin' here for? To talk about the minister, I s'pose. How on earth did Laviny ever come to let him out alone?"

Mr. Pepper, Mr. Abishah Pepper, locally called "Kyan" (Cayenne) Pepper because of his red hair and thin red side whiskers, was one of Trumet's "characters," and in his case the character was weak. He was born in the village and, when a youngster, had, like every other boy of good family, in the community, cherished ambitions for a seafaring life. His sister, Lavinia, ten years older than he, who, after the death of their parents, had undertaken the job of "bringing up"

Healthy Mothers

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the crisis finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the rearing of her child.

Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

her brother, did not sympathize with these ambitions. Consequently, when Kyan ran away she followed him to Boston, stalked aboard the vessel where he had shipped, and collared him, literally and figuratively. One of the mates venturing to offer objection, Lavinia turned upon him and gave him a piece of her mind, to the immense delight of the crew and the loungers on the wharf. Then she returned with the vagrant to Trumet.

That was Kyan's sole venture, so far as sailing was concerned, but he ran away again when he was twenty-five. This time he returned of his own accord, bringing a wife with him, one Evelyn Gott of Ostable. Evelyn could talk a bit herself, and her first interview with Lavinia ended with the latter's leaving the house in a rage, swearing never to set foot in it again. This oath she broke the day of her sister-in-law's funeral. Then she appeared, after the ceremony, her baggage on the wagon with her. The bereaved one, who was sitting on the front stoop of his dwelling with, so people say, a most resigned expression on his meek countenance, looked up and saw her.

"My land! Laviny," he exclaimed, turning pale. "Where'd you come from?"

"Never mind where I come from," observed his sister promptly. "You just be thankful I've come. If your body needed some one to take care of 'em, it's you. You can tote my things right in," she added, turning to her grinning driver, "and you, 'Bishy, go right in with 'em. The idea of your settin' outside takin' it easy when your poor wife ain't been buried more'n an hour!"

"But—but—Laviny," protested poor Kyan, speaking the truth unwittingly, "I couldn't take it easy afore she was buried, could I?"

"Go right in," was the answer. "March!"

Abishah marched, and had marched under his sister's orders ever since. She kept house for him, and did it well, but her one fear was that some female might again capture him, and she watched him with an eagle eye. He was the town assessor and tax collector, but when he visited dwellings containing single women or widows, Lavinia always accompanied him, "to help him in his fingerin'," she said.

Consequently, when he appeared, unchaperoned, on the walk leading to the side door of the Coffin homestead, Keziah and her friend were surprised. "He's dressed to kill," whispered Grace, at the window. "Even his tall hat; and in this fog! I do believe he's coming courting, Aunt Keziah."

Mr. Pepper entered diffidently. "I—I—" he began. "Well, the fact is, I came out by myself. You see, Laviny's gone up to Sarah B's to talk church doin's. I—I—well, I kind of wanted to speak with you about something, Keziah, so— Oh! I didn't see you, Grace. Good mornin'!"

He didn't seem overjoyed to see Miss Van Horne, as it was, in fact, he reddened perceptibly and backed toward the door. The girl, her eyes twinkling, took up her jacket and hat. "Oh! I'm not going to stop, Mr. Pepper," she said. "I was only helping Aunt Keziah a little, that's all. I must run on now."

"Run on—nonsense!" declared Keziah decisively. "You're goin' to stay right here and help us get that stove-pipe down. And 'Bishy'll help, too. Won't you, 'Bishy?"

his wedding garment and had adorned his person on occasions of ceremony ever since. She did not notice the chair.

"It's real good of you to offer to help," she said. "Grace and I didn't hardly das't to try it alone. That pipe's been up so long that I wouldn't wonder if 'twas chock-full of soot. If you're careful, though, I don't believe you'll get any on you. Never mind the floor; I'm goin' to wash that before I leave."

Reluctantly, slowly, the unwilling Mr. Pepper suffered himself to be led to the chair. He mounted it and gingerly took hold of the pipe.

"Better loosen it at the stove hole first," advised Keziah. "What was it you wanted to see me about, 'Bishy?"

"Oh nothin', nothin'," was the hasty response. "Nothin' of any account—that is to say—"

Sherwood Hill to Pontotoc Ct. Voters.

If you believe that a man who has made good in his first term of office is worthy of consideration for the 2nd term I ask your vote in tomorrow's primary. I have been a citizen of Ada 12 years. The cotton business has always been the line in which I have supported myself and family. I have always tried to be a public spirited citizen, have contributed as liberally as my means would admit to every public enterprise in Ada or the up-building of Ada and have helped build every church in Ada and some in the county. My record will show that I have done my part toward the advancement of the Christian religion and the support of the church of which I am a member. I ask comparison in that respect I have never been other than a democrat. I gave $25.00 five years ago and $10.00 two years ago, to the state democratic campaign fund and expect to contribute liberally to both state and nationally to both state and national this time I do not drink intoxicants in any form, and have not done so during my term of office. If I have overlooked any of you in my campaign it was not intentional and I will appreciate your vote in tomorrow's primary assuring you that I will try my utmost to make as good an officer in the future as in the past.

Your obedient servant,
SHERWOOD HILL.

Howard Parker, although kept at Oklahoma City most of the time by the duties of his office, has lost none of his interest in Ada. It keeps him busy, however, shaking hands with his many friends when here, for the whole crew is always glad to see his cheery face. He still feels very much at home at the News office, as might be expected, for during his term of service on the paper, he learned to love it and still feels a deep interest in its welfare.
